There are 12 Smiths in Congress, five in the Senate and seven in the House.

Judge T. J. Nunn, of the Court of Appeals, is again very ill and has been removed from Frankfort to his home at Marion.

The next Senate will have 32 Democrats and 6 Republicans and the House 78 Democrats, 21 Republicans and one fusionist.

A New York court decided that a restaurant keeper was not liable for an overcoat stolen while a patron was eating a meal, with his coat hanging on a rack.

The Mexican rebels have asked Wm. Bayard Hale for his credentials as a representative of the U. S. government, which is regarded as a demand for the recognition of the Carranza government.

The California State prison has abolished striped suits for convicts and substituted cadet gray-blue. A bonfire was made of 2,000 suits while the convicts danced for joy and cheered Warden John E. Hoyle.

Maurice Chevillard, a French aviator, established a new record at Buc, France, Tuesday, for turning somersaults in the air by carrying a passenger in his machine. He accomplished an aerial dip twice in brilliant fashion, going through the performance apparently with as much ease as if he were alone.

Amendment No. 1 to work convicts on the roads, Yes, 44,670; No., 23,325 majority, 21,345.

Amendment No. 2 to change the method of taxation, Yes 42,557; No, 19,516; majority, 23,041.

SLIGHT DELAY

In Giving Possession of the Library Lot.

There will be a delay of a week or two in giving possession of the site for the Carnegie Library on Eighth and Liberty streets, as the sale must be ratified by the First Presbyterian Church in conformity with its charter and the acquiescence of the Carnegie Foundation needs to be secured on the change of location.

Choosing The Right Present.

Are you in doubt about a certain present? The Youth's Companion has proved to be one of the best that can be chosen. Perhaps you have not seen it lately, and are not quite sure. Then let us send you a sample copy or two. Suppose you ask for the issues containing the opening chapters of Arthur Stanwood Pier's fine serial story of life in a boys' school—"His Father's Son." If you look the paper over carefully, bearing in mind there are fifty-two such numbers for a year's subscription of $2.00, we are sure you will say that a better present could not be chosen, whether for a young person or an entire family. For the year's subscription of $2.00 there is included a copy of The Companion Practical Home Calendar for 1914, and all the issues for the remaining weeks of this year, dating from the time the subscription is received.

If you will ask for sample copies we will send with them the Announcement for 1914.

WHERE ARE THE BIRDS?

Something About Game And Men Who Are After It In County.

THE BOB WHITE NON EST.

The Present Game Law Has Not Worked to Great Advantage.

Men, with $40 guns, dogs worth piles of dollars, ammunition enough to charge a Mexican fort, luncheon enough for two or three men and losing time worth from 30 to 50 cents an hour, are scouring the woods and traversing the fields to find what few quail managed to live through the summer. Game is not as plentiful as was expected and many of the Nimrods return home without enough quail for a family meal. A prominent tobaccoist was in the field last Saturday. He says he did pretty well as he brought down three of the swift-winged favorites. Another man said that he had one hundred per cent. luck, as he had one shot and killed one bird. Others report pretty good success but more of them are finding birds are not so plentiful as was expected. Bird suppers are not yet fashionable.

Josh Griffith, of Owensboro, the new revenue collector, was here last week and spent a couple of days in the field with fair success. Bishop Woodcock, of Louisville, who is said to be a fine shot and has been here several seasons for sport, has not yet put in his appearance. Rev. E. L. Powell, of Louisville, may come down again this season to see some of his many friends and incidentally test the accuracy of his aim. Superintendent Hamlett, who is fond of hunting and at the same time readily avails himself of an opportunity to visit the best town on the map, may be expected here any day.

The present game law, which has been in force for a few years, seems to be a failure, though the time that has intervened since the law went into effect ought to have proven its advantages. Game of all kinds, it is generally admitted, is no more plentiful than ever. There are some who believe that the next Legislature ought to pass a bill prohibiting killing game of any kind for three years, as in that time birds and small animals would have a "living chance" to increase. Advocates of such a law cling to the opinion that in three years game of any kind would be plentiful.

PRISONER ESCAPED

Before Being Locked Up and Is Still at Large.

Ben Thacker, a negro, proved too slick for Jailer Mullins Monday afternoon. The negro had been charged with drawing a knife on his wife's father and was to be locked up until Tuesday morning when he was to have been tried. When Mr. Mullins got to the jail door with his prisoner to open the outer door, Thacker broke and ran towards the river and got away.

No Sales Made.

As was foreshadowed by this paper last Tuesday, there were no loose floor sales on that day. There was not enough tobacco on hand to offer to buyers on account of weather conditions. Warm, damp weather is necessary for bulking and nobody can tell when the sales will begin.

Cook Convicted.

William F. Cook, of Smyrna, Tenn., charged with beating his wife and niece to death, was convicted of first degree murder at Murfreesboro.

Letter From Miss Starling to Her Mother From Siam

Nan, N. Siam, June 27, 1913.

The three men left Wednesday morning for Annual Meeting, leaving a lone woman in each house and I guess I am the only woman who is not concerned. Mrs. Taylor and I drove down this afternoon to the south compound, to see the widows there; they are sleeping together, but each eats at her own house. While Mrs. T— and I stand by the stuff at night, and eat together. I don't mind sleeping alone, but I don't like eating by myself. We have both decided that we prefer this way of doing. Mrs. T— could come over here at night to sleep, if she liked; but she would lose a lot of time going back and forth, and she isn't strong, and it would be hard on her, especially as the rains have begun.

We have fifty pupils enrolled this week and not all in yet; I hate to think of the rains interfering with our attendance, as it will do. We have more pay pupils than we have ever had. A Siamese who put his daughter in, became our friend and has been instrumental in bringing in half a dozen others, whom we would have never reached. One of the teachers in a government school has also brought us in three girls.

There is a disease here that is killing off the cattle like flies. Yesterday two buffaloes died near here, and people were flocking around all day carrying the meat off. Buffaloes are too precious to kill for eating so whenever any of the meat is for sale you know it is diseased. We have a new matron, and last week she bought some dried meat that was evidently diseased. For two of the girls were poisoned from it.

I have just finished writing to Mr. Spilman, who has charge of the "go down" in Bangkok, and sent him an inventory of the box you are sending me; this is to avoid the custom officials from going through the things. I have also asked Mr. S— to take charge of the box or trunk when it comes, unpack it and put my dresses away until fall when I go down, if I do. This will avoid any risk of the things getting wet coming up the river. I knew you have worked hard on the sewing, as you always do, and I appreciate the "labor of love" more than I can tell you. When I see how the women out here have to worry over their sewing with very unsatisfactory results, I realize how much you are saving me. If I had to worry over my clothes I should adopt the native dress, which isn't bad, but would shock the other missionaries, I know. Mrs. Taylor is rejoicing that, as she isn't having any clothes to come out this year, that I am having a box to unpack. Unpacking our boxes is the most exciting event of the year. But Mrs. T— brought back plenty of clothes with her, and then she is a good seamstress and can do a little sewing along as she needs it. Letter from Mrs. Palmer last mail, mailed at Singapore. They were all enjoying their trip—but they are all like children—everything that happens to them is the best and most exciting ever. That is one of their fine traits; it takes less to amuse them than any people I ever saw, and they don't complain about things.

Nan, N. Siam, July 26, 1913.

I have been going hard all morning attending to various wants of my cherubs, and nothing to show for it; unless a certain spirit of quiet sanctity reigning over the place be excepted.

The men returned from Annuals Wednesday afternoon in good health having made a very quick trip. They brought home some plants of pink and white Honolulu vine, red single hibiscus, and a pair of fine chickens which Mrs. Harris sent Mrs. Taylor. So we have been setting them out this morning, with a nice cape jasmine which I rooted in water.

Yesterday was Mrs. Taylor's 25th wedding anniversary, so the girls made them a big bouquet. We got a lot of five satang pieces, tied them with baby ribbon and tied them all through the bouquet, then the girls marched over in procession and presented it to the Taylors, and one of the teachers made a neat little talk, saying that if they would stay here twenty-five years longer we would give them a gold present. Last night the teachers invited them down to tea (Friday is our regular day for tea,) and when we got down had a lovely supper for us: tomato soup, baked chicken, asparagus, peas, scalloped potatoes, pocketbook rolls, coffee, jelly, cranberries, olives, cucumber and egg salad, punch, pudding and cake. And everything was beautifully prepared. At the end of the supper, the boy brought in the silver bowl we had bought for them, with a smaller one, from Mrs. McGilvary and her two daughters. The Taylors were just knocked over; they didn't know what to say. Dr. Beach made a neat little speech, saying that he thought when people lived together 25 years they deserved some sort of a reward. I made the place cards—bells out of silver paper. Will send you one next week. After supper we had music and spent a very pleasant evening together.

Today we are having our monthly tests—the last we will have this term, I think. School closes in another month, and if we have an entertainment, I think I won't add to the work by having papers to correct. I am glad we don't have school much longer, for it is getting hot, and the girls are beginning to have fever.

Got a letter from Mrs. Peoples last mail; she thinks my school report "the best she ever read." She and Doctor think I should be the head of the Nan Girls' School, and let Mrs. Van go to Prae when she returns. It happens, though, that matter is already settled; but I am glad the prospects of my continuing to stay here suits them.

The walk over to Palmers' in the middle of the afternoon gave me a splitting headache from the heat; I seldom go out in the middle of the afternoon and hope I won't have to do it again soon.

There is a lot of smallpox in the country around, but the people are so superstitious they wouldn't allow themselves to be vaccinated. One of our native Christians from Lakawn has been around here vaccinating, but he was able to accomplish very little. The death rate is very heavy. They say that the cows and buffaloes are dying from the disease, too. And the loss of the work animals is a serious one to these people, for it means they will have nothing to work their rice fields with next season.

I am sending a kodak picture as a birthday card. I intended sending another one, but is not yet dry, so I will send this one one, wishing you a very happy day and many more of them.

I am not alone from preference because people worry me, but because I have to be. And if I get selfish and cranky it is one of the necessary evils attending the pursuance of duty. I am content to be alone if it is God's will, but I don't prefer it.

Last night the girls crowded around to tell me that three of the neighbor boys had come in the compound and offered to embrace them. They were sons of our Christians, so this morning I armed myself with three switches and started out. I found only one young man at home, but I gave him a good dusting, and left word for the others that if they wanted to do any embracing to pay me a visit; that I had a switch waiting for each of them which I would surely use if I caught any of them in the compound again.

FIRE CHIEF

Calls on Everybody to Be Cautious In Burning Leaves.

E. P. Fears, chief of the fire department, issues a few notes of warning that are valuable just at this season of the year, when the dead leaves cover everybody's lawn. Here are some of them:

Don't burn trash in the yard.
Don't burn leaves or trash while the wind is blowing.

Don't leave a burning trash pile until the fire is out.

Don't allow children to play about a bon fire.

Don't burn leaves or trash after dark.

And he emphatically warns parents about allowing children to play about fires after the leaves begin to burn.

These fire rules if closely observed, will save property and maybe lives.

REVIVAL

At The Ninth Street Christian Church Begins Sunday.

The evangelistic services at the Ninth Street Christian church will begin next Sunday morning. Rev. H. D. Smith, the pastor, is to be assisted by Rev. W. H. Sheffer, of Memphis. Prof. E. M. Hackleman, of Indianapolis, will have charge of the music, assisted by Mrs. Perkins and Miss Moore. Miss Wright, teacher of violin at McLean College, will also use her instrument during the meeting. The choir has been strengthened and the musical features of the services will be superb.

Mrs. Stevens President.

Mrs. Daisy McLauren Stevens, of Brandon, Miss., was elected president-general of the United Daughters of the Confederacy in convention at New Orleans.

THE CROFTON P. O. ROBBERS

Were Convicted In The Federal Court at Paducah Last Monday.

$15,000 DAMAGE SUIT DISM'D

Postmaster At Ford's Ferry Indicted For Violating Postal Laws.

Paducah, Ky., Nov. 18.—The November term of United States District Court was convened here Monday morning with Judge Walter Evans, of Louisville, presiding.

The suit of Dr. Edgar N. Fruit, of Hopkinsville, against the Illinois Central Railroad Company for $15,000 damages, was dismissed.

A settlement in the suit of Jesse Osburn against the Illinois Central for $25,000 damages, was announced.

S. M. Russell, of Elkton, Ky., the new Assistant District Attorney, is on his first visit to Paducah. He instructed the grand jurors after they retired this morning.

Six indictments were returned by the Federal grand jury at noon Monday.

G. B. Terrell, against whom indictments charging him with destroying the levee eight miles below Hickman, Ky., pleaded guilty to one indictment and was fined $500. The second indictment was dismissed.

James L. Rankin, Postmaster at Ford's Ferry, Ky., was indicted for violating the postal laws. He is charged with having converted approximately $500 of Government funds to his own use. The other indictments were unimportant.

Chas. Garth, col., was sentenced to 30 days for stealing a package of neck ties from the mail.

J. B. Benson was given 2½ years and Tom Price 3 years in the Leavenworth federal prison for robbing the Crofton postoffice. The last three cases were the arrests made by the Hopkinsville police force, six of whom were witnesses.

COLLEGE BENEFIT

"Miss Fearless & Co." Will Be Presented Next Tuesday Night.

The young ladies of Bethel College are preparing and are about ready to give a play in the College Chapel next Tuesday night. The title of the play is "Miss Fearless & Co." Critics have pronounced it a most excellent play and all who feel like contributing a small sum to encourage the young ladies who are staging it for the benefit of the College will more than get their money's worth, for the reputation of Bethel girls for excelling in anything they undertake is well known.

BOYCOTT PROPOSED

Mayor Riddle Has a Plan To Break The Egg Corner.

Atlantic City, N. J., Nov. 18.—Mayor Riddle, of this city, wants the public to join him in abstaining from eating eggs until the price is reduced so the poor can again afford to buy them. In an appeal to the citizens of Atlantic City, he said:

"I am willing to lead if citizens will follow me in abstaining from eggs altogether until they can be purchased in the markets at a reasonable figure.

"If the people in the country could be brought to see the point, corners would soon cease, it would mean that many would have to go without deserts, but this would be only for a short while."

Prospective Husband, With His Future Happiness at Stake, Had No Poetry in His Soul.

"You know I honor and respect
you," she said, "but I cannot love
you as a wife should love her husband."

As she spoke she softly stroked his head and looked into his eyes with a
regret that she did not attempt to hide. He drew a deep breath, then
pulled himself together, and said:

"Think again, Margaret. Don't be hasty in deciding such a serious matter. Don't let a little mistake now wreck your life as well as mine. You say you don't love me as a wife
should love her husband. What do you think the love of a wife for her husband ought to be?"

She laid one of her soft white
hands in his and again looked sorrowfully into the depths of his eager eyes.

"I don't want to hurt you, Cuthbert," she replied, "but I think it will be best for me to be frank with you.
I am sure I could never learn to love
you as a wife should love her hus-
band."

"But you haven't explained how
you think a wife ought to love a hus-
band."

"She ought to love him with all her soul. He should be the sun and
she should be but an obedient planet
revolving around him. His smiles
should be as the rays of the orb of
day bringing to life all that is lovely
in her existence."

"Is that all?" he timidly asked.

"No," she admitted, "there is more. He should be to her what the translucent brook is to the famished
dew, what the dew is to the gasping
flower, what the blossom is to the eager bee, what the—what the—"

"Do you mean what the plaster is mistaken. There was no poetry in

IS VEXING PROBLEM

Distribution of Public Documents
Big Job for Bureaus.

Government is Spending Millions of Dollars for Popular Dissemination of Information Through Medium of Printers' Ink.

Washington.—How to insure promptness in the distribution of publications continues to be a vexing problem in many bureaus of the various branches of the government, particularly in the departments of agriculture, commerce, interior and labor.
These are the departments which publish the greatest number of printed
documents for which there is a popular demand. The government is spending millions of dollars on printed bulletins for popular distribution each year, the fund for the dissemination of information through the medium of printer's ink in the department of agriculture alone amounting to more than $1,000,000.

At the present time all bulletins are sent out by the superintendent of
documents of the government printing office. This official's task would be easier and his service most satisfactory if his work were restricted to
the sending out of bulletins to large mailing lists, but, according to the law passed by the last congress, he has to take care of all miscellaneous
distribution, and all mail requests for bulletins of any kind must be filled
by the government printing office.

The object of this law was efficiency
and economy, but chiefs of various
bureaus believe that it entails more
expense in the end than the original system of direct distribution. When congress made the law, which has been in operation about one year, it
did so on the information that at the time bulletins were sent from the government printing office to the individual bureaus and thence mailed out over the country. Because of the fact that the government printing office is near the Union station it was
figured that a saving in transportation
could be effected if the bureaus would refer their requests for bulletins to
the superintendent of documents and Director Harris of Census Bureau.

he should mail them direct to the applicants. The theory of the practice
which was outlined and on which the law governing the present method of distribution is based was good, but
its working out has proved defective
in many instances.

Director William J. Harris of the bureau of the census had his attention
called to defects in the present method a few weeks after coming into office. A correspondent wrote to Director Harris requesting that a summary
of the latest agricultural statistics be mailed him. A form letter was written in the census office to the applicant for information, saying that the request had been referred to the superintendent of documents, and that
the bulletin containing the statistics
would be mailed from the government printing office. The information was wanted in a hurry; the correspondent
waited five days, then wrote to the superintendent of documents stating that Director Harris had written saying that the bulletin would be mailed
from the printing office. A polite request was made of the superintendent
of documents to hurry the information, as the time for completing the article in which the statistics were to be included was growing very short.
The superintendent of documents then
sent a form post card to the correspondent, saying that his letter had been referred to the director of the census. The correspondent, whose patience was almost worn out by this time, having expected the information
in one or two days at the most after
his original request was made, brought
the matter to the attention of Director Harris, who was surprised that the
red tape created by the present law
makes prompt distribution of public
documents almost impossible, providing the request for them comes by mail. On personal application a document will be furnished immediately,
but only those people living in Washington can have the benefit of this prompt service.

Hundreds of cases similar to the one
which has just been outlined occur
every month in the departments, and
according to chiefs of bureaus, it is becoming harder and harder to disseminate the vast amount of information which Uncle Sam is spending millions of dollars to gather.

AMERICAN WOODS GO TO ORIENT

Recent statistics indicate a marked increase in exports of lumber from the United States to the Orient. More than a quarter of a million feet of American woods are reported as being used in Samoa, Hawaii, and the Philippine Islands.

Heretofore, it is said, raw materials
have been made up into finished articles in the United States, almost without exception, and exported as such.
With the discovery by American manufacturers in the Philippines that they could import United States woods and make them up with profit there, wood-
using factories were built. Pacific coast woods, in consequence, are in many cases taking the place of the native woods with such picturesque
names as aptong, teak, narra, and yael.

Douglas fir, according to the information collected by the forest service,
is the principal wood exported from
this country. It is said to be the favorite wood among insular manufacturers
for flooring, ceiling, siding, cornice,
shelving, finish, and boat work.
Makers of furniture demand California
redwood and sugar pine, southern quarter-sawn oak, eastern ash, sugar
maple, and western white pine.

Four woods, principally conifers and oaks, go into the construction of
boats; for framing parts, masts, spars,
interior trim, planting, boat crooks
and tiller handles. Meat blocks are made from sugar maple, which with
sycamore supplies the entire demand
in the United States. Wagon felcos

HE CAME BACK.

Representative Ben Johnson, chairman of the District of Columbia committee of the house, was aroused from
sleep at three o'clock the other morning by the ringing of the electric door
bell. Being alone in the house, Mr.
Johnson had to answer. Poking his head out of a second story window, he asked:

"What is it?"
"A telegram," came the plaintive
cry of a messenger boy.

"Read it," said the congressman.
The telegram was from a constituent asking Mr. Johnson who is going to be recommended for postmaster at Blennerhasset, where the present incumbent has 18 more months
to serve.

"Take it back to the office; I can't come down for it."

Mr. Johnson returned to his bed and went to sleep. About five o'clock the bell rang again.

"What is it?" he shouted.

"You didn't sign for the telegram,"
said the boy.

What Mr. Johnson said would not do to print.

DANIELS RIDES IN COAL TRUCK.

There was some mistake in placing
an order for a cab to take Secretary
Josephus Daniels of the navy department to hear President Wilson deliver
his message on Mexico to congress.
At ten minutes before time for the
message no taxicab appeared.

Mr. Daniels and his secretary, Howard A. Banks, stood on Pennsylvania avenue waiting. It was too late to take a street car. Two minutes later
Secretary Daniels and Mr. Banks,
seated by the driver, were going up Pennsylvania avenue as fast as the law would allow, in a big truck used
to haul coal for the navy department.
Mr. Daniels, seeing U. S. N. on the truck, halted the driver, jumped in,
and told him to "beat it" for the capitol.

"I am the secretary of the navy, and
have authority to press any of our vehicles into service," was the order the driver got.

NEW POSTMASTER LIST BIG.

In the 176 days, including Sundays
and holidays, since postmaster General Burleson assumed the duties of his office, he, among other things, has appointed 5,765 postmasters. This makes his average something over 32
a day. Of the total number, 2,203 were presidential postmasters, who receive
in excess of $1,000 a year salary, and
whose appointment must be confirmed
by the senate. The remainder, 5,562,
are postmasters of the fourth class,
named either as a result of civil service examinations or after personal investigation, by postoffice inspectors.

First Assistant Roper the other day
reported to Mr. Burleson that the appointment work was up to date, all cases having been settled in which the department has the necessary data
upon which to base affirmative action.

FOUR BILLION CARDS.

Four billion postal cards will be required by the postoffice department
during the next four years, and Postmaster General Burleson recently asked for sealed proposals for furnishing that number. The contract now is held by the government printing office, but previously was executed by a private printing concern.

The postoffice department supplies
the plates from which the cards are printed, and it may change them at any time. Engravers now are working upon a portrait of Thomas Jefferson, which is to be substituted for
that of William McKinley on the new issue.

Might Not Be Alive.

McMinnville, Tenn. — Mrs. Oele
Jett, of this place, writes: "I don't believe I would be living today, if it hadn't been for Cardui. I lay in bed 27 days, and the doctor came every day, but did me no good. Finally he advised an operation, but I would not consent, and instead took Cardui.
Now I am going about the house, doing my work, and even do my washing. Cardui worked wonders in my case. I am in better health than for five years." Cardui is a strengthening tonic for women. It relieves pain, tones up the nerves, builds strength. Try it. At your druggist's.

The December Smart Set.

A novelette by Will Levington
Comfort, "The Painted Wilderness,"
is the chief feature of the December
issue of The Smart Set. This is a spirited story of the Southwest, very tense and dramatic; it relates an experience in the life of a sheriff who follows the call of duty down over
the border into Mexico—and meets
Romance and Fortune on the road.
Mr. Comfort's best work is in this story, in which he has returned to the field of his earlier successes.

This month's story in the "Pages
from the Book of Broadway" series
by George Bronson Howard, is
"Cadge Dirksmelter, Dramatic Critic," one of the most interesting and illuminative of all the Howard stories that The Smart Set has published during the past year.

The Love Letters of a Confederate General

WE begin in the November issue a series of real love-letters written over fifty years ago by one of our national heroes to his sweetheart during the period of '61 to '65. This great general will go down to posterity as having accomplished one of the most brilliant feats of arms in the history of the world. He was as great a lover as he was a general, therefore these letters combine authentic history and exquisite romance. They sound a human note that no other work of literature has done in a decade; it is war, it is romance, it is history, it is literature. You simply can't afford to miss this wonderful series—an inside story of the Civil War now published for the first time and containing all the freshness of a contemporary happening. These letters will grip you hard, and hold your interest from first to last. Fill out the coupon and send it now before you forget it.

REFRESHMENT FOR ONE

By CLARA POEHLMAN.

"Mother wants to know if she can have—" began small Clara, trotting into Mrs. Brown's back hall. Then she sniffed.

"Um—I guess I smell fudge!" she exclaimed, stepping slowly but surely toward the kitchen door. "I haven't had any fudge for the longest time."

"It isn't fudge? Well, I'm sure it smells like fudge. What is it? Chocolate. Well, I like that, too."

"Oh, no, I'm not hungry. That is, I am hungry, but I don't think I'd better take any chocolate. Well, I would like a cup, maybe. It smells like fudge and chocolate soda. I had a chocolate soda last night."

"What's that in the little pan? It's such a cunning little pan. Eggs? Why don't you just boil them in the teakettle? I don't see why it wouldn't be clean. I'm sure my mother does. Anyway, she would if she thought of it."

"Oh, what's that cunning little brush? Why, it's a toothbrush, isn't it? Do you brush your teeth out here? Oh, you use it for vegetables! Do some of them have teeth the same as potatoes have eyes? I'm sure my mother doesn't brush our vegetables' teeth."

"Oh, yes, I see. You scrub the dirt off them. That's nice. I just hate to find sand on my baked potatoes. But I think the toothbrush for the vegetables is fine. Is it yours or Mr. Brown's?"

"Oh, I thought it was just a worn out one you were using up out here. You know, sometimes the bristles get old and fall out—and stick into you—but they wouldn't hurt the vegetables, would they? I think it is a very good way to use up your old brushes—and Mr. Brown has such big teeth that he must use up lots of them. Oh, yes, I forgot; you did say this was a new one. But I think when I tell mother she'll use old ones, for we've got so many around."

"Once I brushed my teeth—that's how I know about the loose bristles. I don't know whose brush it was, but it was the nicest looking one in the bathroom, so I took some of mother's new face cream and put on it and then brushed the baby's teeth. He made such a fuss that I just brushed my own to show him it was all right—only, of course, I didn't use face cream on my teeth. I could tell from the way the baby acted that it didn't taste as good as it smelled. But the bristles came out all over my mouth—"

"He Made Such a Fuss."

and I was sorry I'd brushed my teeth. "That chocolate was awfully good. Were you making it for lunch or just for us for a between meals lunch? If it was just made for us, I'll drink another cup with you."

"Why don't you drink any? You want to save some for Mr. Brown? Sometimes my mother does just like that. She says she gauges things wrong. That's what you did, isn't it? I should think you'd make a big fuss for any one as big as Mr. Brown. "My mother puts more cream in chocolate than you do, but I like this just as well."

"Don't you make any dessert for lunch? I don't like to eat very well without dessert. I like pie with ice cream on it, but I guess it costs a good deal."

"Mr. Brown doesn't like dessert? Oh, he's fooling you. Don't you believe him."

"I thought I saw some cake over there. Oh, that's for company tonight? I see. Would you call me company when I just came up in the morning? Would you like me to show you my doll tonight?"

"Oh, there's my mother calling. She asked me to come here and get some—I forgot what. I'll just run down and ask and then I'll come back."

"Shall I bring my doll to show you company tonight?"—Chicago Daily News.

THE THRICE-A-WEEK EDITION OF THE NEW YORK WORLD

Practically a Daily at the Price of a Weekly. No other Newspaper in the world gives so much at so low a price.

This is a time of great events, and you will want the news accurately and promptly. All the countries of the world steadily draw closer together, and the telegraph wires bring the happenings of every one. No other newspaper has a service equal to that of The World and it relates everything fully and promptly.

The World long since established a record for impartiality, and any body can afford its Thrice-a-Week edition, which comes every other day in the week, except Sunday. It will be of particular value to you now. The Thrice-a-Week World also abounds in other strong features, serial stories, humor, markets, cartoons; in fact, everything that it to be found in a first class daily.

THE THRICE-A-WEEK WORLD'S regular subscription price is only $1.00 per year, and this pays for 156 papers. We offer this unequalled newspaper and Hopkinsville Kentuckian together for one year for $2.65.

The regular subscription price of the two papers is $3.00.

ONE MAKES HIS OWN LIFE

To the Average Man, Conditions Are Bad or Glad, as He Has Carved Them.

A sad story comes with the telegraph news from Stockton about a discouraged railroad man who threw himself in front of a freight train and was crushed to death. He left a note reading: "What's the use? Good night, you rotten old world!" Now, that tragedy is very pathetic and must touch profoundly every human heart. But what made the world rotten to this poor man? The rottenness was in his life, not in the world, and was put there by his own acts. This is absolutely true, no matter what the man's life may have been. It is impossible he could have been born into more unhappy circumstances than poor Heinrich Heine, yet that German made himself an immortal name by unremitting effort, using all his gifts to the utmost of their development. Every man makes his life sound or rotten, sweet or bitter, for himself, and the world is not done by others.—Los Angeles Times.

LEXINGTON LEADER

Passes Into The Hands of A Stock Company.

Lexington, Ky., Nov. 19.—The Lexington Leader, the afternoon and Sunday newspaper founded in 1888 by Samuel Judson Roberts and conducted by him until death, March 23 last, and since that time operated by his widow, Mrs. Anna Trout Roberts has been sold to a stock company, headed by John G. Stoll, president of the Lexington Hydraulic and Manufacturing Company, and W. L. Warren, two of the wealthiest men in Eastern Kentucky.

Mrs. Roberts' health is the reason for the sale of the paper, which is in a highly prosperous condition. No change will be made in the heads of any department. Mr. Stoll and his partners will take possession of the property January 1. The paper will be made larger and will continue actively and aggressively Republican.

Football Saturday.

The last game of football for the season will be played here Saturday, when Clarksville will meet the High School team. It will be a fine game and a large crowd will be out, as any contest with Clarksville always "draws." Efforts to have the game postponed until Thanksgiving day was futile, and unless some other team can be induced to come here Thanksgiving day will close the season.

An Ideal Sunday Newspaper.

Recent issues of The Sunday Record-Herald remind one that Chicago may fairly lay claim to producing the best newspapers in the world, not excepting those of New York. The Sunday Record-Herald, in foreign news alone, has its own special cable service in addition to those of the New York Herald, World, Journal of Commerce and Associated Press. This is a fair example of the completeness of the paper in every department.

Aside from the regular news features, there is something in The Sunday Record-Herald for every member of the family. The sporting pages, both daily and Sunday, give the latest authentic news in every line of sport. The woman's section is filled with illustrated articles on the newest wrinkles in fashion and domestic science. "The People's Institute of Domestic Economy," filling a whole page every Sunday, is the newest and best household department in any paper. Dame Curtsey's "Novelties in Entertainment" is a valued feature. The dramatic and musical pages, written by James O'Donnell Bennett and Felix Borowski, are admittedly without their equal in the West. The array of splendid special articles by skilled writers, finely illustrated, also is typical of the high literary quality of The Record-Herald. In the way of humor there is the comic colored supplement for the children, besides S. E. Kiser's delightful "Whimwhams and Sentiment" for everybody.

But the thing that lifts The Sunday Record-Herald most emphatically above all its rivals is its magazine section—a real magazine, full of stories and articles by the most famous writers of our day, illustrated by celebrated artists. Since its $10,000 prize story contest it has retained the services of some of the best short story writers in our language. No wonder The Record-Herald is regarded as the ideal Sunday newspaper!

Guest Wrong.

Inquiry at police headquarters developed that a man by the name of Guest who was cut about the head and on the hands Saturday night by a man not known to the police was in the wrong, as he is said to be the aggressor. The police say that he did not appear in the city court Monday morning to testify against the man who carved him up.

Fusion Won.

Tompkinsville, Ky., Nov. 17.—Frank Denton, of this place, was elected County Attorney of Monroe county on the Democratic ticket. This was brought about by a fusion between the Progressives and Democrats. Mr. Denton is the first Democrat to be elected to this office in Monroe county for twenty-five years.

Deaf Mutes Marry.

Miss Honor Gay Brown, a native of Hopkins county, and Karl Renker, both graduates of the Kentucky School for the Deaf at Danville, were married in the parlors of the Seibach Hotel a few days ago. The ceremony was performed in the sign language by Prof. Geo. Schofield, of the Kentucky School for the Deaf.

Will Preach.

SUDDEN DEATH

Of Mrs. Cox at Her Home in Trenton.

Mrs. Jennie Cox, widow of the late Prof. Sam F. Cox, formerly of this city, died rather suddenly at her home in Trenton at 1 o'clock Tuesday morning. Mrs. Cox was a teacher in the Trenton High School and taught Monday. She had complained of not feeling well and on her return home was taken quite ill. Towards midnight she was thought to be better, but when her mother returned to her room later to give her a dose of medicine she found her daughter dead. The deceased was about fifty years old and is survived by an only son, who is attending school in Lexington. Mrs. Cox's husband was at one time a teacher in South Kentucky College, now McLean College, this city. He was killed by a train at Trenton about seventeen years ago.

Mrs. Cox was a member of the Methodist church. The interment took place at the Trenton cemetery yesterday.

Mrs. Anton Coming.

People who are enjoying the splendor of orchestra music at the Rex theatre will be glad to learn that Mrs. Anton, wife of the musical genius who performs on the lyre and half a dozen other instruments, will be here next week. Mrs. Anton is a Southern woman and her home is at Waco, Texas, where she has been since Mr. Anton came here. The solos of Mr. Anton have been greatly enjoyed by all who have heard them and Mr. Anton says his wife excels on the lyre and he will turn that instrument over to her when she arrives, as that is her favorite instrument.

Will Tour Together.

Mr. S. Water Faulkner, of this city, who is traveling for The Kruse & Bahlman Hardware Co., Cincinnati, has been advised that Mr. Austin, sporting goods salesman for the same house, will join him at Kutka on Sunday for a two weeks' tour of Mr. Faulkner's territory. They will be in Hopkinsville Monday, Dec. 1, for the purpose of looking after the trade here. Mr. Faulkner is enjoying an excellent business in his territory this season.

Brakeman Killed.

Central City, Ky., Nov. 17.—John R. Kennedy, 26, a railroad brakeman fell from a box car at Stroud and was instantly killed. Several cars passed over his body which was cut in two. It is believed that he lost his footing while applying a brake and fell between the cars while in motion. Coroner Lewis viewed the body at this place, after which it was taken to Russellville for burial. He is survived by his widow and one child.

NEGRO SHOT

At Gracey But May Not Be Fatally Wounded.

Two negroes, Ennis Carter and Lawrence Bryant, got into a difficulty at Gracey last Monday night about a crap game. Bryant fired at Carter with a .38 caliber pistol and the ball passed through Ennis' body. The doctors think the ball did not strike a vital part and Carter may recover. Bryant has but one arm but that does not keep him from handling a gun with accuracy. H. H. Cox, marshal of the town, and Police Judge Wilson arrested Bryant at his home two miles west of Gracey, and brought him to the city and turned him over to Jailer Mullins, who will hold him until Carter dies or is able to appear in the examining trial.

Farm School Closed.

The farm school closed yesterday. The attendance was not large, owing probably to the farmers being so busy that they could not come to town. The school, however, was a success, and the results will be lasting.

Wednesday morning Miss Sweeney talked on the needs of the school lunch box. She does not believe in sending children to school with a "snack" just to last until they get home to eat a regular dinner. The box should have a square meal in it.

Her talk to the Civic League was full of valuable suggestions that should be put into practice, as there is nothing more conducive than sanitary home.

Mr. and Mrs. Milton G. Moore have returned from a week's bridal tour and have taken rooms at Mrs. Goldthwaite's.

Miss Sallie Campbell, of Hopkinsville, will arrive this evening to be the guest of Mrs. Q. C. Atkinson.—Clarksville Leaf-Chronicle.

E. A. Stowe, after a visit of several weeks to relatives here and in the country, left last night for his home at Redlands, Cal.

Mrs. Mollie C. Teer has gone to San Diego, Cal., to reside.

Mrs. John Thomas returned from Texas Tuesday night.

Mrs. E. B. Bradshaw, of Cadiz, who had been visiting relatives in the city, went to Gracey yesterday to spend a day with her brother, Mr. L. A. Summers, before returning home this afternoon.

Miss Georgia Durrenberger, who has been spending some weeks with her sister, Mrs. George Lake at Hopkinsville, returned home Saturday.—Bowling Green News.

Col. W. R. Howell, accompanied by Mrs. Howell, left a week ago for a month's stay at the Colonel's farm in Trigg county. If the Col. is as good at beating the bushes for game as he is at stump speaking, his friends may expect to hear some wonderful hunting tales when he returns to the city.

WHY MINISTER SEEMED COLD

Fitch's Reporter Had Left Most Significant Note on a Sermon Manuscript.

"I want to take advantage of this occasion to set myself right with a member of the Ministerial association. He is present, but I will not mention his name," said George Fitch of Peoria.

"It was when I was an editor. I asked the minister for a copy of a sermon. He allowed me to use it, but enjoined me to see the copy was returned to him. I promised. Then I gave the sermon to a San Francisco earthquake sufferer who was temporarily on the editorial staff—an earnest, enthusiastic, and bibulous soul—laying stress on the importance of returning the copy to my desk.

"The sermon was returned safely and without unfolding it I gave it to the writer next day, heaved a sigh of relief, and dismissed the matter from my mind. The next time I met him I noticed a peculiar coldness in the demeanor of that particular minister. I did not understand it, and it worried me until I found out what the trouble was.

"The San Francisco earthquake sufferer had written a note on the manuscript for the guidance of the compositor. It was:

"Save this sermon. Not that it's worth a 'Keokuk,' but save it."

Rev. Hugh Jack then arose and assured Mr. Fitch that his version of the matter was entirely satisfactory to him—besides, it happened a long time ago.—Peoria (Ill.) Journal.

WONDERFUL TOWN.

Lecturing at the London Salon of Photography recently, Mr. James Shaw said that the town of Rothenburg, in Bavaria, was a model in the way of municipalities. Should a business be on the point of leaving the town, the town itself would guarantee the necessary money in order that the disaster to local industry might be averted. Recently the town had in this manner financed a baby-car manufactory.

There was neither a workhouse nor a vestige of a slum in Rothenburg, and the laborer, the artisan, the professional man, and the nobleman lived next door to each other in the same street.

POSSIBLY THE TRUTH.

The village schoolmaster had pulled out his 20-bladed knife, and was explaining to his class how all the implements were useless but for the modest bone handle.

"Which part of the knife, therefore, do I make the most use of?" he asked.

A boy at the foot of the class promptly responded: "Please, sir, the corkscrew."

EVERYTHING QUITE ALL RIGHT

Physician's Wrath at Patient Surely Should Have Been Soothed by the Explanation.

Cato Sells, the new commissioner of Indian affairs, told a story to a Washington bunch the other night in demonstrating that our fears are often quite groundless.

On entering a fashionable cafe in one of the big eastern cities some time ago, Mr. Sells said, a doctor was amazed to see one of his patients happily plowing his way through a layout of beef. Instantly he speeded to his side.

"What in the world are you doing, Smith?" demanded the doctor in his severest voice. "Didn't I tell you not to eat beefsteak?"

"You certainly did, Doc," frankly admitted the patient, "but everything is all right. There is no occasion for alarm."

"You are disobeying my orders!" heatedly explained the doctor. "I want you to understand—"

"Don't get excited, Doc!" interjected the patient. "As I said before, there is no occasion for it. I can easily settle for the steak and pay your bill, too."—Philadelphia Telegraph.

POOR OLD WORDSWORTH!

Owen Wister, the novelist, was talking in Philadelphia about a poet whose work sold poorly.

"Poets are usually without honor," he said. "Remember Wordsworth's case."

"The great Wordsworth, you know, was in the habit of spouting his poetry aloud as he took his lonely walks. Thus he polished and elaborated his lines. Thus, too, he got the reputation among the Rydal Lake folks of being a bit daft."

"Well, John, what's the news?" Hartley Coleridge once asked an old stonebreaker by the lake shore.

"Why, not varra partikler," the stonebreaker replied. "Only old Wordsworth's broken loose again."—Montgomery Journal.

GREATEST ENEMY OF CHICKS

Chilling Causes More Loss Than Anything Else—Lies Sap Vitality of the Little Follies.

The greatest enemy of the chick, and that which causes more loss than any other one cause, is chilling; the second enemy in importance because of amount of loss is lice. Both lice and chilling are the direct cause of bowel troubles, because both sap the vitality and the life of the chick, making it impossible for the little fellow to resist the organisms of disease that are always ready to attack it.

Dusting the setting hen helps, but some lice are quite sure to escape and can later be found on the head of the chick. Rub a little lard on top of the chick's head, getting it into the down thoroughly, and you will get these; repeat the dose in a week, and if the hen is furnished a good dusting place, the lice are not likely to give any more trouble; but whenever you see a chick that seems unhappy, eyes closed, droopy, look for lice.

The brood coops should be thoroughly sprayed before using with some coal tar preparation, sheep dip, whitewash, or a mixture of four parts coal oil and one part crude carbolic acid. It pays to be ahead, and that explains why so few of us are making anything on our poultry; we neglect these little things; because of this neglect disease gets the start of us; we become discouraged because of the losses and give up and blame our luck, when all the bad luck might have been prevented by a little careful preparation.

Give the chicks a clean place and keep them free from vermin, and you can safely count them before they are raised.

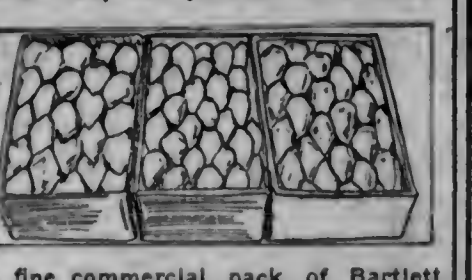

CAREFUL PACKING OF PEARS

Care Should Be Exercised Not to Have Fruit Hang Too Long, as It Deteriorates Quality.

(By C. C. VINCENT.)

While the packing of any fruit is largely a matter of experience, there are certain principles which apply to all fruits, though more care must be exercised with some varieties than with others. The pear is a very perishable fruit and requires the most careful handling. The picking season varies with the prevailing climatic conditions each year. Whenever, on slightly twisting the stem and turning the pear upward, it will snap off, the fruit is ready to pick. Of necessity it must be picked for shipping while yet in a green state. Great care should be exercised not to have the pears hang too long, for it deteriorates the shipping qualities very materially. After picking, the fruit should be packed and shipped as soon as possible, as they are quite perishable.

The boxes for pears must be lined with wrapping paper and the pears themselves also wrapped. There is an increasing demand for fancy pears, which means carefully selected, uniform fruit, well packed. It is understood, stood, of course, that the fruit itself is first-class. Such fruit always brings higher prices than unsorted, poorly wrapped and packed pears. It is a splendid illustration of the statement that the greatest profit is realized by handling a number one product in a first-class manner.

A fine commercial pack of Bartlett pears. Fruit must be packed well if good prices are to be realized.

There are several forms of packs for pears, but all are diagonal. The pears must be packed so tight that when the box is nailed there will be pressure enough on the fruit to hold it firmly in place. A larger bulge is allowed on pears than is customary on apples.

Cleaning Up the Garden.

As soon as all fall crops are out of the way, clear up the garden generally, instead of leaving the decaying vegetables and plants to harbor insects. Then the plot of ground can be given a dressing of manure and plowed so that it will be in good shape for business early next spring.

When you plow the garden, turn the flock of chickens into it for a few days to pick up the insects which they will find. They will thus secure lots of feed and at the same time destroy enemies of your next year's crops.

Business Ways Needed.

Few owners of the smaller poultry plants know what percentage of profit their flocks yield. Many may know how much they spend for feed during the year, and how many eggs the hens laid within the twelve months, but further than that they cannot give any figures of the cost of production or the actual profits from the sales. Adopt business methods in your poultry plant.

Inviting Inducements.

To the man with a clear out conviction of just what he wants and who has the necessary ability and courage to stay with it until it is accomplished the field of breeding dairy cattle offers inviting inducements.

Valuable Hen.

A quiet, gentle hen with the mother instinct strongly developed is worth money in the chicken business.

IMPROVING SEED CORN

Least Expensive Method of Increasing Yield Per Acre.

Ears Taken From Highest Yielding
Rows of Ear-to-Row Breeding Plants Have Repeatedly Produced Best Ears for Seed.

(By R. O. WEATHERSTONE.)
The average production of corn to the acre for the entire United States is but 26 bushels, yet in practically every section four times that quantity
is frequently produced. Improvement
of the quality of seed is the least expensive method of increasing the yield
per acre.

There is each spring a scarcity of good seed corn. This condition is all the more regrettable because it need
not exist and it is much more serious
than commonly supposed because
many do not fully realize the tremendous loss to themselves and the country due to planting inferior seed. A full stand of plants may be obtained
from inferior seed, but the yield will not be the best possible. The loss is due to delay or negligence. It can be prevented by the selection of seed
corn in the autumn. Until a community has its experienced and honest
corn breeder, the best place for the farmer to obtain seed corn is from
fields on his farm or in his neighbor-

Four devices for curing seed corn. At the left the double cord is shown.
The rack in the center consists of a square frame of 2x4 inch strips
on each side of which wires have been stapled two inches apart each

upon these two sets of wires. Next is shown the single cord method of tying and at the right hangs a

By far too many consider seed good simply because it will grow. To be first class, seed must be—Well adapted to the seasonal and soil conditions where it is to be

Grown on productive plants of a productive variety.

Well matured, and preserved from ripening time till planting time in a manner that will retain its full vigor.

Seed ears taken from the highest
yielding rows of ear-to-row breeding
plants have repeatedly produced better than seed ears taken from poorer yielding rows. Seed ears from the best producing stalks found in a general field produced more than seed
ears taken without considering the
productiveness of the parent stalks.

Four bushels of ears were divided into two equal parts, one part being
well taken care of and the other
placed in a barn as corn is ordinarily cribbed. The well-preserved seed gave
at 12 per cent. increase in production
on poor soil and a 27 per cent. increase on fertile soil, notwithstanding
the fact that both lots of seeds germinated equally well.

seed corn. The process is too important to be conducted incidentally
while husking. When selecting seed corn give the process your entire attention. Get the very best that is to be had and preserve it well, and your
increased yields will return you more
profit than any other work you can do on your farm.

Advantages of Plowing.

Fall plowing should be done as
early as possible, as more weed seeds
are started in the early plowing, the stubble decays better and more nit-
rates are formed and other plant
food is liberated in larger quantities.
Early fall plowing can be plowed
deeper than late fall plowing without
so much danger of bringing up too
much soil at once from below.

Delivery of Milk.

As good pure milk finds the most
ready sale of any farm product it is
of paramount importance that it should be delivered in the best possible condition.

She Stayed In Bed.

Ingram, Tex.—"Ever since I became a woman," writes M. S. E. M.
Evans of this place, "I suffered from womanly troubles. Last fall I got so bad, I stayed in bed for nearly a week
nearly every month. Since I have taken Cardul, I feel better than I have for years." You can rely on Cardul. It acts on the womanly organs and helps the system to regain
its normal state of health, in a natural way. Prepared especially for women, it prevents womanly pains,
by acting on the cause, and builds up
womanly strength in a natural way.

BIT OF SENATORIAL SECRECY

Visitor Is Unable to Even Secure in Initials of Senator Aldrich From Private Secretary.

Illustrative of the secretiveness of
some of the secretaries of public men,
a story is told by a resident of Washington who called on the private secretary of Senator Aldrich.

"I would like to get a little information," said the visitor to the young man who sat pounding the typewriter.

"That is impossible," returned the secretary. "The senator is away, and I can give nothing out while he is gone."

"But I only wish to ask what are
the senator's initials," said the caller.

The secretary pondered a while,
pulled down the shade, coughed slightly and after much hesitancy replied:

"I do not care, my dear sir, to answer that question. I will be obliged to refer you to the senator himself for
such information."

Wanted the Earth.

An automobile manufacturer in this city tells of a bright young man in his employ who came to him not long ago for a raise in pay, according to the Cleveland Plain Dealer. He was a valuable workman but he was already getting what his employer considered a fair salary.

"How much do you expect and what do you want it for?" he asked. "You have no family responsibilities and should be able to save money on what you are getting now."

"That's the point," said the young man with a smile. "I am engaged to a girl. I only want enough so that I can get married and live comfortably."

"Great Scott, man!" cried the boss.
"There ain't no such salary. I'll give you enough to get married on, but that's as far as I can go!"

Ended Happily.

The talk at a recent reception turned
to literature, when Louis Mann, the comedian, was reminded of a story
read by a party in New England.

The party was the wife of a farmer,
and as she laid down the magazine
that she had been reading and soulfully sighed her husband glanced up
from his newspaper.

"What's the matter, Marlar?" asked
the old man. "Have ye finished that story?"

"Yes, Henry," answered Maria, "just
this very minute."

"I s'pose," said Henry, resuming his paper, "that it ended happy?"

"Yes," answered Maria. "The beautiful heroine got over a long spell of
sickness, an', what's more, the story
gave the name an' the price of the medicine what cured her."

MEAN.

The Novelist—Why, he told me my latest story was the best he ever
read.
The Jokesmith—Sarcasm is evidently lost on you.

She Lost It.
Mistress (hurrying frantically)—
Marry, what time is it now?
Maid—Half-past two.

Mistress—Oh, I thought it was later! I still have twenty minutes to catch the steamer.

Maid—Yes, mum. I know ye'd be rushed, so I set the clock back thirty minutes, to give ye more time.—
Judge.

The Hurtful Truth.

"I shall never speak to him again,
the mean thing."

"What has happened?"

"I was walking with him down the street the other day and we passed a fat woman. I asked him if he thought I was as fat as she and he looked at her for a moment and said that he thought perhaps I was."—Detroit Free

THREE THINGS YOU NEED..

First—
"Kentuckian"
A virile, new newspaper with the interest of the entire community at heart. Issues of the day are handled without fear or favor. You will find in this paper an up-to-date depart-ment for each member of the family. Clean, honest, straightforward—it is a paper your family should not be without.

Second—
Technical World Magazine
is the one magazine that not only entertains in a fascinating manner, but which also instructs. It is the magazine for the busy business man, or for the person who wants to lull away a summer's afternoon, and be agreeably informed at the same time. It is profusely illustrated, and tells in a simple and interesting way of the discoveries of scientists, the achievements of inventors, the feats of engineers and explorers, and the opening of every new field of human endeavor. What Jack London says:—"I have just chanced upon my first copy of TECHNICAL WORLD MAGAZINE. There isn't anything like it. I want more, and I cannot wait for them to come, so I am sending you with check for which please enter my subscription and send me immediately the last two years' back numbers."

Third—
A Fine Atlas
This one is just off the presses. This is the year to obtain a new atlas. The 1910 Census has just been completed, this atlas contains the official figures. 128 pages of 3 color maps brought right down to date—every map giving the results of the most recent surveys. All railroads are shown and named and maps of all large cities are included. There are 21 double page maps showing in detail portions of the U. S. and Canada. Dimensions 10 1/2 x 13 1/2. Bound in stiff linen—Silver Leaf Title—printed on heavy plate paper. Sells regularly for $3.00. A splendid gift.

ALL THREE
Only $3.80

Special arrangement with Technical World Magazine and the publishers of this Atlas make this offer possible. But it is very strictly limited. You must act immediately.

KINCHELOE'S HAT IS IN THE RING FOR CONGRESS.

The formal announcement of Hon. D. H. Kincheloe, of Madisonville, Ky., for the Democratic nomination for congress for this district, to be made in the regular primary election next August, appears today.

Mr. Kincheloe has for some time been regarded as Congressional timber and the retirement of Mr. Stanley offers him an opportunity to follow the dictates of his ambition. He was born in McLean county 37 years ago. His first lessons were learned in the common schools of his native county, and at the age of seventeen he matriculated at Bowling Green College and graduated therefrom with high honors at the age of twenty-one. Even while in college the evidence of the coming orator was apparent, as he was the winner in the oratorical contest of the college.

Soon after his graduation he chose as his profession the law, and after thorough training and the mastery of the elementary principles of the law, he was admitted to the bar in May, 1899, and began the practice in Calhoun, Ky. His splendid legal ability and capacity won for him speedy recognition and he was elected to the office of county attorney in November, 1901, and was the youngest county attorney in the State at that time. The excellent record he made in that office fully justified the confidence and partiality of his friends. At the expiration of his term he was induced to come to Madisonville and accept a place in the law firm of Gibson & Hall, known afterwards as the firm of Gibson, Hall & Kincheloe, until the retirement of Judge Hall, and since then as Gibson & Kincheloe.

He has always been a loyal Democrat. In 1912 he was a Democratic elector and made many speeches for the ticket. He enjoys the reputation of being one of the best and most popular orators and convincing speakers in Western Kentucky and his services are much in demand, both in the political arena, as well as an after-dinner speaker.

Mr. Kincheloe's social and fraternal attainments are such that he enjoys great popularity in lodge circles. He is a Mason, an Elk and a member of the Woodmen of the World, and is now Head Consul of the Woodmen, the chief officer of that large order in Kentucky.

His acquaintance is extensive, and he is personally known to a large proportion of the voters in each county in the district. He enters the race under the most favorable circumstances, with the support of a host of friends in every county.

Mr. Kincheloe was in Hopkinsville Tuesday and says he will at once enter into an active and vigorous campaign of the whole district.

GOOD SHOTS

Won Book of Rex Theatre Tickets Given By Manager Shrode.

The regular semi-monthly owl shoot by two squads of Co. D. was pulled off at the armory last Monday night. The prize was a book of Rex Theatre tickets to each member of the squad, offered by Mr. Shrode, the manager of The Rex.

There were five men on each side in the contest. One squad was under Capt. Ware and the other under Capt. Koon, the first named making the highest score. Following is the score:

Capt. Ware, 41; Boyd, 35; Tappan, 33; Bohannon, 40; Mielke, 35. Total 184.

Capt. Koon, 29; Armstrong, 35; Means, 34; Bearden, 36; Long, 38. Total 167.

Capt. Ware made the highest score, 41, and Bohannon was second, with 40.

In New Quarters.

Secretary Bleich, of the H. B. M. A. is now quartered in the building of the Cadillac Co., South Main Street. There is plenty of room and light and everything looks cozy. Miss Myers, Mr. Bleich's Secretary, County Agriculturist Morgan, Gordon Nelson the secretary of the fair company, and Mr. Peterson, all have desks in the room with a big table in the center with easy chairs for callers. A room better adapted for the use of these officers and the public could not be found.

Yale Student Killed.

John R. A. Lannom, of Louisville, a sophomore at Yale, was killed by falling from a second-story window of his dormitory while reaching for a bottle of water in the window. His body will be brought home tonight.

On the Stump.

Secretary of the Navy Daniels left Washington for Kansas City and other Middle Western cities to make speeches.
